PRAYING THE MASS

Holy Communion is a wedding banquet, and the acclamation of the priest "Bless are those who are called..." is a wedding invitation. The members of the Church are then individually and collectively the Bride of Christ, and Holy Communion is the intimate union of Bride and Bridegroom.

On this feast of Corpus Christi, the Body and Blood of our Lord, let us spend some extra time with Him in thanksgiving and reflection after receiving Him in Holy Communion.

Glorify the Lord by your life

At the end of Mass we hear the priest or deacon say the words of dismissal "Go, the Mass is ended" but the Latin word missa is not so much a dismissal as a sending forth. We, the body of Christ, are sent from the Church as on a mission (missio). It is for each one of us to reflect upon the precise nature of our own mission, because each one of us is unique and has our own particular role to fulfil. Nourished by the Eucharist, in Communion with one another we go out strengthened to follow Christ, to embody Christ to one another and to glorify him by our lives.
